

Use this prompt to complete any project management document template, copy and paste this into any LLM of your choice:

“You are a professional project manager. Complete the project management template below using the project information provided. Use PMBOK-style project management language, but keep it simple, practical, and realistic.

Instructions:

- Complete every section of the template.
- Keep the same headings and structure.
- Do not delete or rename sections.
- Use project-specific information, not generic definitions.
- If information is missing, make a reasonable assumption and label it clearly.
- Make sure the answers are consistent across the entire document.
- Use tables when the template uses tables.
- Write the final output so it can be copied directly into the blank template.

Project Information:

[Enter your project details here, be specific, like type of project, industry, team size, location, limitations, and objectives. The more detail you are, the more likely the template will match your current project.]“
